Dr. Grim Tells of Milk Control Work

Epidemics Prevalent in Suburbs
20 Years Ago, L. M.
Officer Says

STANDARD IS HIGH NOW

The growth of milk control to safeguard the health of suburbanites was vividly shown Tuesday noon at a meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club. Dr. George Webster Grim, milk control officer of Lower Merion Township, was the speaker.

Dr. Grim reviewed the conditions in the suburbs twenty years ago, when epidemics of all kinds were caused by poorly handled milk, when tubercular cattle were found everywhere, and when no standards were set up.

A set of rules were created at that time, but failed to keep in tune with changing times. Ten years ago the need was seen for more comprehensive measures. The present milk control code and the inspection of five communities by the co-operation of five communities is the result.

When a survey was made a decade ago the conditions under which milk was produced and distributed were frightful, the speaker said. Dirt and diseases were everywhere. One Lower Merion herd was found to consist of over 80 per cent. tubercular cows. A

Orchestra Concert Was Well Attended

Demonstration of Theremin by Mrs. John B. Thayer Pleases.

An audience of eight hundred turned out Sunday evening for the first concert of the season of the Main Line Orchestra held at the Ardmore Theatre.

The outstanding feature of the concert was the performance by Mrs. John B. Thayer, president of the Orchestra Association, on the electric Theremin. Mrs. Thayer's playing on this instrument, which has not hitherto been publicly demonstrated outside of New York, Philadelphia and Cleveland, brought much applause from the audience and required three encores to satisfy her hearers.

The orchestra opened with Gluck's overture, "Iphigenia in Aulis," following this with two movements from Saint-Saens' symphonies. The first movement of MacDowell's second piano concerto, played by Miss Grace Lindeberg, with orchestra accompaniment was well received.

Merion Friends Have Foreign Student Speaker

On First day, 11th Month, 23d, 1930, it was the privilege and pleasure of Merion Friends' Meeting to have as its guest and speaker Nagib Eadeh, from the International Students' House at the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Eadeh is a graduate of the Friends' School in Ram Allah, Palestine, which is eight miles from Jerusalem. He is now a first-year law student at the University of Pennsylvania. His message on "The Recent Developments in Palestine" was most interesting to the large group present.

Dr. R. W. Kelsey, of Haverford, was also in attendance and gave an inspiring talk on "The Present Needs for This Thanksgiving Season."

President W. W. Comfort, of Haverford College, was a recent guest at Merion Meeting and spoke very acceptably.

Kitty McLean, Narberth Hockey Player, Holds Record For Traveling Greatest Distances

Katherine E. McLean or "Kitty" as she is known to the hockey world is renowned not only as a star player and member of the All-American team since it was first chosen in 1923, but also for the fact that she has traveled more miles than any other hockey player—that is, in the pursuit of hockey alone and played in more games out of her territory.

Her home is right here in Narberth, 500 Beechwood Lane, to be exact and here she stays—sometimes say her family—in the hockey season.

In 1917 Miss McLean was a very young player in her first year of club play. Chosen for the All-Philadelphia second team she had a chance to play on the first team when Dorothy Diss-

L. M.-Narberth Council of Rep. Women Will Meet

The Lower Merion-Narberth Council of Republican Women will hold a meeting on December 1, preceded by a luncheon at the Lodge Tea Room, 396 Lancaster Avenue, Haverford, instead of The Green Lantern Lodge, Ardmore. The hostess is Miss Kate Brusstar and the speaker will be Miss MacNally of the Children's Bureau. Her subject will be "The Proper Understanding and Treatment of the Difficult Child."

Egyptian Theatre Held Up Tues. Night

Robbers Escape in Stolen Car with Receipts of $153.20.

FLED TOWARDS THE CITY

The Egyptian Theatre, Bala-Cynwyd, was the scene of a daring robbery Tuesday night when the cashier, Joseph O'Keefe, of Narberth, was held up and robbed of $153.20 by two armed men.

The holdup occurred at 9:40 A. M. and the bandits escaped in a car they had parked at Bala and Highland Avenues. The car, a Packard coupe, had been stolen shortly after 7 o'clock from in front of the home of its owner, John Langdon Jones, 6012 Ridge Avenue, Roxborough.

One of the bandits, who was described as well dressed, from 30 to 35 years of age and about five feet seven inches in height, poked a gun through the cashier's cage and said, "Hand over the money and make it snappy." The cashier, O'Keefe, said, "Where do you want it?" "Out the back door," was the retort. The other bandit, who was described as shabbily dressed and having a prominent nose, took the money out of the rear door of the cashier's cage and the two men fled to their machine and were last seen heading down Bala Avenue towards City Line.

The holdup, occurring shortly after the start of the second performance at the theatre, was not witnessed by anyone on the street. O'Keefe immediately called the manager of the Egyptian, Joseph Conway, who notified the Lower Merion police.

P. J. Lawler is the owner of the Egyptian.

Club Bridge December 9; Regular Meeting Monday

On December 9 the Woman's Community Club of Narberth will hold a mixed bridge party in Elm Hall. The time is 7:45. Reservations may be made with Mrs. F. J. Uhler, Narberth 2889.

The regular meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Elm Hall. The speaker will be Mrs. C. M. Merrell and her topic will be "Unemployment before and after the Panic."

Mrs. J. Burrell and Mrs. F. X. Purcell will be at the tea table.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Directors and all chairmen at 2 o'clock on Tuesday, December 2.

Mrs. John W. Joyce will be in charge of the Donation Table in the rear of the hall.

Ladies' Night Monday

Ladies' night will be celebrated next Monday evening by the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club. Entertainment is scheduled to take the place of the speakers.

Boles, Horton, Keaton and Marx Brothers Are Coming to the Egyptian

Moran and Mack, famed as radio's Two Black Crows, are not half bad in "Anybody's War," playing at the Egyptian Theatre, Cynwyd, this weekend. Among the laughs: their discussion of the Sad Fish; the X-ray business with a pair of dice; Mack's scene in the potato bin. The story of two Tennesseans in the A. E. F. is based on a novel by Charles E. Mack, leader of the team. In addition, the Egyptian is showing another of Coach Rockne's expositions of football tactics a la Notre Dame: "Flying Feet."

Love songs by Charles Wakefield Cadman and the Marseillaise itself are well sung by John Boles, as Rouget de Lisle, in the spectacular drama of the French Revolution, "Captain of the Guard," which will play at the Egyptian Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. Laura LaPlante, star of "Show Boat," etc., is one of the capable players in Carl Laemmle's Universal production.

Edward Everett Horton is the perfect butler in "Once a Gentleman," highly amusing comedy booked for the Egyptian next Wednesday and Thursday. Lois Wilson is a "perfect housekeeper" in this diverting tale of mistaken identity. Under James Cruze's direction, and with a capable cast including George Fawcett, King Baggott and Francis X. Bushman, the film is a good one.

Cliff Edwards carries his ukelele to the front line trenches, singing "Sing" before he gets shot in the ukelele; and Buster Keaton reproduces many of the thrills of war (in which he actually served, as a doughboy in the Rainbow Division) in "Dough Boys," the Egyptian's comedy for next week-end. War is shown on as big a scale as "The Big Parade," in this funny story, which is a burlesque of war epics.

Coming to the Egyptian, December 12 and 13, is "Animal Crackers," funniest picture of 1930, in which the Marx Brothers star.

"Animal Crackers" Praised

According to Laura Laedlein in the Ledger, "Variety sat up nights and counted the laughs in 'Animal Crackers,'—the Marx Brothers film coming to the Egyptian Theatre December 12 and 13—". Their c. p. a.'s report 363 . . . 301 for spoken gags and the rest for situations. They give Groucho 75 per cent. of the dialogue laughs. . . . Harpo, the mute, naturally gets most of the other class. . . . Only twenty-two comedy attempts, say they, missed fire. . . . Twelve of these were lost by overlapping. . . . The other ten just died.

Paul Scull Film Is Playing at Narberth

"Maybe It's Love," the Joe E. Brown-Joan Bennett comedy playing at the Narberth Theatre this Friday and Saturday, is the picture for which Paul Scull, of Bala, Lower Merion and Penn., went in action at Hollywood with the All-American football team of 1929. The cinema is rated good entertainment, and there are some good football scenes.

"With Byrd at the South Pole," well-filmed actual picture of the Admiral's Antarctic expedition, is to be seen at Narberth's playhouse Monday and Tuesday evenings, and at a school children's matinee Tuesday afternoon. It is one of the best six pictures of the year.

Cyril Maude, English character actor, plays his greatest role in "Grumpy," at the Narberth Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. The story of family life, dramatic and amusing, is of especial appeal to Main Liners.

"Holiday," coming to Narberth next week-end, is a splendid vehicle for Ann Harding's talent. Critics rate it highly.

Guild to Hold Tea

St. Margaret's Guild will hold a bridge tea in the library of St. Margaret's School on Monday, December 1, at 2 P. M. Mrs. John A. Borden and Mrs. Henry A. Smith are the hostesses. The regular monthly meeting of the Guild will be held on Tuesday, December 2, 1930.

Haverford Yields 14-7 Game to Delaware

The Haverford College team after holding the University of Delaware for three periods fell before the attack the Newark team launched, score standing 14-7. The first half was mostly a kicking duel with Haverford holding a slight edge. In the third period Haverford scored when Dothard, who starred in the Main Line backfield, caught a kick on his own 40-yard line and ran to Delaware's 20-yard line before being stopped. Tripp and Pleasants together made a first down and Dothard scored the touchdown for Haverford. Fields kicked the goal.

Delaware scored twice in the fourth period, once as the result of a pass, with a line plunge to score the touchdown. Again when a Haverford kick was blocked by Pohl and Hurley fell on the ball back of the goal line for a touchdown.

Rev. John Van Ness Honored Last Friday on Twentieth Anniversary of His Pastorate

Last Friday evening was the occasion of a very happy celebration in the Narberth Presbyterian Church. It was at that time the twentieth anniversary of the pastorate of the Reverend John Van Ness was celebrated.

The social room of the church was beautifully decorated with flowers, plants and cozy lamps, making this otherwise severe-looking room most attractive and inviting. Much thanks is due Mrs. Howard Nold and her able committee for this part of the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Ness were greeted by the large number of persons present and were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Beatty and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robb.

After the reception a very pleasant program was provided by a splendid orchestra with Peter Stam, Jr., at the piano; Percy Nash, cellist; James H. Jewell and John Steffin, violinists. Several readings, both old and new, were rendered in a most charming fashion by Mrs. Horace L. McConnell, after which Mrs. Peter Stam, Jr., sang two solos in the appealing manner which has endeared Mrs. Stam to all who know her.

The Reverend Edmund G. Rawson, pastor of the Ardmore Presbyterian Church, gave an intimate talk in which he made some comparisons between his and Mr. Van Ness' churches. He men-

Inspired Radnor Team Holds Maroon to Tie

RIDGE'S RUN THRILLS

By TOMMY MACKLIN

Radnor was an inspired football eleven last Saturday when they met Lower Merion in the thirty-first football game of their traditional series which began way, way back when hoopskirts were still hanging in mama's closet and bicycles for two could speed down the road without causing hysterics from bystanders. The game was played this year for the first time at the Villanova Stadium.

The thirty-first meeting was nothing more than any of the other games. It was a battle for blood with the team from Wayne getting the first taste of the red stuff within three minutes of the opening whistle. Howard Lamley and his heavy-plunging backfield mates just simply pounded Lower Merion's heavier line into smithereens and in seven plays had the ball over the goal line with Oats O'Dorisio speeding off tackle for the first six points of the contest. Lamley received Rose's kick-off and brought it to the 34-yard line, where he was tackled. Kavanaugh and O'Dorisio made a first down in two plays. Then two more first downs followed each other in rapid succession, and then the fireworks with young Oats doing his circus act at the expense of Bob Taylor and other players to the left side of the line.

Of course, the Lower Merion stands arose in relief when Dave Ridge, a whale of a football player, outdistanced serious epidemic at Bryn Mawr brought matters to a head.

"Milk is the most important of human food," Dr. Grim said, "and is indispensable for babies. As a result its quality and purity are important, particularly in view of the fact that milk is a common carrier of epidemic germs."

The efforts of the past ten years have brought raw milk to an exceptionally high standard: pasteurized milk, which comes from a greater distance, is rapidly approaching the same high level; ice cream and table cream are the most recent products brought into line.

Cream is a problem, Dr. Grim said, because inspections must be made at points as far away as Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Dr. Raymon M. Staley, chairman of the meeting, in introducing the speaker, paid high tribute to the work of Dr. Ezra S. Doubler, of Penshurst Farm, who developed one of the first tuberculosis-free herds in the country.

Dr. Jones to Speak in Borough

At the Narberth Community service to be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church on Sunday, January 18, 1931, Dr. Rufus Jones will be the speaker.

Merion Meeting is represented through Mrs. W. Russell Green on the committee who plan for these community services every month throughout the year.

Talks on Coal

The mining and preparation of anthracite coal, illustrated with motion pictures taken in the mines, was the subject of a talk by Ralph S. Dunne, local coal dealer, before the meeting of the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, on Monday night. A similar talk was given by Mr. Dunne last Friday to the fourth grade pupils of the Narberth School.

Meteors Keep Lead by Winning 3 From Camels

The Meteors took all three games from the Camels in last Friday's matches in the Narberth Church Bowling League and judging from the way they are knocking down the pins, it is evident they are determined to win the flag for the first half. The prize last week of a Thanksgiving Turkey was won by Brennan, of the Colts.

Local Fruit Dealer to Aid in Relief of Needy

Relief for needy families in Narberth is now being planned by several agencies. Many churches and Sunday schools have raised money which is aiding some families over Thanksgiving and additional relief is to be forthcoming.

A novel means for the public to aid charity is announced for next week by Max Braslau, proprietor of Max's Fruit Market, Haverford Avenue. Five per cent. of all purchases—cash or charge—made any of the six days of next week at his store will be refunded for purchasers to place in a vase which will be placed in the store.

It is expected well over fifty dollars will in this manner become available for charitable purposes for the poor of any and all denominations here. The goods, by the way, will be sold at prevailing low prices, and there are no strings whatever to the offer.

The Rev. R. E. Keighton, pastor of the Baptist Church of the Evangel and chairman of Narberth's Community Service Committee, has consented to receive and disburse the proceeds. It will go to aid needy families in the borough, and Mr. Keighton requests all persons knowing of any such to communicate with him promptly. Only about six families are known of at present.

Co-operating on the Community Service Committee are the Women's Community Club and the American Legion of Narberth, and five churches: the Merion Friends' Meeting, the Methodist Church, the Lutheran Church, the Baptists and All Saints Episcopal Church, Wynnewood.

That brings to mind the joke that is being backed as the best of the 1930 year, judging by the number of times it has been told.

But here goes. A bond salesman calling on a friend who owned a circus found the showman bemoaning the death of an ape which couldn't be replaced under $1000. The bond salesman thought he could use the thousand so he suggested that the ape be skinned and that he would take its place.

"Twas done and everything was jake for several weeks when one day the door between the ape's and lion's cage was left open. Before the terrified pseudo ape could summon help, Mr. Lion stuck his head through. Screaming the ape retreated to the farthest end of the cage when the lion suddenly said: "Shut-up, you sap; you aren't the only bond salesman out of a job."

The one nice thing about telling jokes in print is that nobody can interrupt saying "Oh, you mean the one about the lion being a bond salesman, too."

It might be included in the definition of what makes a good sport: that they listen silently even when their best jokes are being told by another.

And that applies to wives whose husbands tell the same jokes year in and year out.

Doll's House to Feature Hedgerow Theatre Program

The Hedgerow Theatre at Moylan-Rose Valley is continuing to play three nights a week and will inaugurate this week's program on Thursday, December 4, with a performance of "A Doll's House," by Ibsen. In the leading roles are: Miriam Phillips as Nora, Ferd Nofer as her husband, Helmer, and Jasper Deeter as Dr. Rank, while Dudley Vaughan and Harry Bellaver are cast in supporting roles. Bernhardt's "The Prisoner" will be played Friday night, with Jasper Deeter in the title role, Harry Bellaver as Obrastov, Dudley Vaughan as his wife, and Jean Sweidel as Irene Polosova, a revolutionary. Ferd Nofer plays General Kamishansky. Saturday night Jean Ferguson Black's fantasy, "Thunder on the Left," a dramatization of Christopher Morley's novel of the same name, will be presented. Ned Potter has the role of Martin. Dudley Vaughan is Phyllis, and Helen Craig Joyce. Others in the cast include Ferd Nofer, Ruth Heckman, Jean Sweidel and Harry Bellaver.

Rehearsals have commenced on "Pinwheel," an impressionistic play by Francis Feragoh with a view to a late opening before the close of the Hedgerow season. The only other production of this play was made several seasons ago under the auspices of the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York. Tonight's play at Hedgerow is "Thunder on the Left," and Musselman's comedy, "Poker Face," will be played tomorrow night.

In your last week's paper appeared an item of the receipts and bills of the Narberth Ball Club and I suppose the item of J. A. Miller's bill for $121.50 marker was a mistake on the printer who set up the type.

I would like this corrected as the charge made for the marker was $12.50, which was the cost of same.

J. A. MILLER.

Our error. Mr. Miller is quite right. The markers for the ball diamond were installed by him at the cost price, which was only $12.50.

New Books

REVIEWED BY L. L. CHAPPELL

"The Saint" by Conrad Ferdinand Meyer (Simon and Schuster, $2.00).

"Der Heilige" was written fifty years ago by the Swiss novelist and poet, Conrad Meyer. The first English translation has long been out of print, so that in America this excellent romance of Thomas à Becket is little known. Dr. Edward Franklin Nauch's new translation, published last summer, reinstates the charming tale, and it is quickly finding many readers. They enjoy it most who are fond of English history, yet not so fond as, habitually and uncompromisingly, to take their history straight.

"The Saint" seems to this reviewer an ideal historical novel. It is, in the first place, a short historical novel. Brevity is seldom a characteristic of the genre. Here, however, is a subject fairly enclosed—the struggle of Thomas, Archbishop of Canterbury, with Henry II, of England, in the decade 1162-1172. Of this material, Conrad Meyer has made a winter's tale, recounted at a fireside in Zurich during just one evening. John the Crossbowman, who was long in the service of King Henry II, tells the story. He knows it well, having witnessed all its chief events, having dwelt near to both protagonists in the days when Becket was Henry's chancellor.

Grace of telling quickens old scenes into life again, and about the reader sifts delicately a light of other days. Gradually we seem to understand these unhappy men of long ago. With high seriousness and true insight, the novelist portrays the king, his four sons, and the Archbishop. At the end we feel that we know these six men. No others of importance enter John the Crossbowman's story. John, too, we finally know well, and we deeply pity the poor fellow, who though but a minor actor in the tragedy, shares with the king a sense of guilt for the murder of the Archbishop. The Crossbowman's mood of shuddering regret, enveloping the story lightly at first, lowers thickly when the dirge-like end is near. So, real sorrow reaches from book to reader, and regret for an historic wrong is, for the hour, imposed on this twentieth century. Such sharing seems right.

The violence of the struggle, that ended with the death of the Archbishop, must be explained, the novelist seems to have thought. So, giving rein to imagination, he has inserted into the first part of the book the story of the girl, Gratia, dwelling in a Moorish castle set at the edge of an English forest. It is her death that, according to Meyer, embitters Thomas à Becket and motivates his opposition to the king. The Moorish influence which is represented as subtly working within the chancellor is an interesting fancy.

The great scenes are depicted with clarity and power. Thomas Mann in writing the foreword to "The Saint," has used the expressions which best describe Meyer's art—"plastic achievement," containing "literary sculptures which are precious treasures of German epic prose." The fullness of this beauty is preserved in the fine sympathetic translation.

"The Fishermen's Saint," by Sir Wilfred Thomason Grenfell. (Charles Scribner's Sons, $1.00.)

When, recently, we heard of the publication of Dr. Grenfell's essay, "The Fishermen's Saint," we thought, "but that is Dr. Grenfell, himself." Since, for forty years, he has labored among fisher folk, he is their own, certainly. Moreover, he has worked with an ardor, a courage, a spirit of self-abnegation that seem the attributes of one more than human.

But no, it is not of himself that he writes. St. Andrew is his subject, and a happier one could not have been chosen for this, the Rectorial Address delivered by the Labrador doctor to the students of St. Andrew's University in Scotland.

The address, given November, 1929, has just been cast into book form. A slim green volume, it is so attractive in format, so truly fine in content that we prophesy for it extreme popularity among Christmas shoppers. Its high seriousness, good humor and underlying mood of adventure are in harmony with the Christmas spirit.

Dr. Grenfell cites, as salient qualities of the Saint, impulsiveness, generosity, loyalty, a tendency toward self-effacement, bodily strength and capability. In the essay these characteristics become points of departure for a consideration of modern life and of the equipment it requires. "To me," writes Dr. Grenfell, "the joy of life is the measure of its force, and achievement the measure of its joy." And elsewhere, "The world of germs is revealed by microscopes, of stars by telescopes, of electrons, protons and endless sound and light rays by still more elaborate methods. But the ability to appreciate the simple statement, 'Behold the Lamb of God!' still, as ever, has to come of character."

These are thrilling utterances when one apprehends them as the conclusions of a man whose life is truly a success, a man, who is, at once, seer, scientist, and active missionary.

Main Lines

Believe it or not, one of the officials of the P. R. T. was called from his bed at 4 A. M. a week or two ago by an irate gentleman who felt he had a just complaint against the transit company. The conversation was something like this:

Irate Gentleman: "Mr—"

Sleepy Voice: "Yes."

I. G.: "I'm out heah at your Sixty-ninth Street station. I put a penny in one of those damned slot machines down heah, but I didn't get my gum. Nor did I get my penny back, suh! I want to tell you that I think such proceedings on the part of a great corporation like yours are dishonorable! I didn't get my gum, I tell you, and I didn't get my penny! I want to know what you're going to do about it?"

Sleepy Voice (somewhat awakened and aroused): "My dear sir, my dear sir—" But the irate gentleman at the other end had slammed down the telephone and departed.

A correspondent writes that "according to J. H. Rountree, of Ardmore, there used to be a saloon opposite the Narberth Station, then called Elm, at the time of the Centennial of 1876. This saloon on Haverford Avenue had a big glass of beer painted on its sign, advertising the now prohibited liquid at 5 cents per glass. The house of Mrs. Furry was the only one in Elm in 1874 and her saloon marks the beginning of the business section in Narberth. So many of our Pennsylvania towns have grown from tavern seed!"

Seen and heard at L. M. Radnor game

One small boy was glad that the game was so exciting that it took all father's attention. Small boy consumed one box of ice cream that must have been just an hors d'oeuvre. Followed by one sandwich with a long, juicy, and fat hot dog therein. That's not all. It was spread generously with golden-y mustard. This finished small boy contently took to chewing gum.

Oh, for youth once again.

A cascade of players into the Radnor water bucket that for once gave an effect of miniature Yellowstone geyser, quickly turned off.

A cheering Lower Merion mamma who knew the game. Her comments ran "Stop Him, boy! He did!" "Atta, boy." "Oooooo....." We have yet to have that interpreted. We think it satisfaction when Lower Merion started an offensive.

A gorgeous sky just in back of the Radnor side. Was it an omen? Heavenly blues and gleaming silvers blending together as only the skies show it.

Two airplanes, toward one of which were invectives directed for doing stunts while the game was on. Spectators can't look up and down at the same time. And old human nature doesn't like to miss anything. At the circus, you can see a little bit of everything going on, but not when it comes to a football match and air tactics. Something gets missed.

Harmony in the Radnor band. The four feminine guards with their bouquets gave a splendid display of symmetry and harmony. One on each side of the flag bearer wore a white skirt and red sweater and white beret and one wore a white sweater, red skirt and red beret. Pretty neat. In fact, both pretty and neat.

Christmas Funds to Be Released Early

Four Main Line Banks to Mail Club Checks This Saturday.

Over half a million dollars in Christmas Club money was released by Main Line banks last week, one week earlier than usual, in order to enable Christmas Club members to take advantage of the Buy Now movement with its lower prices, and to aid community buying power and thus alleviate unemployment.

The Merion Title and Trust Company with its branches in Narberth and Bala-Cynwyd, the Ardmore Title and Trust Company, the Counties Title and Trust Company and the Bryn Mawr Trust Company are the banks which are participating in this step.

A total of $728,000 will be distributed by December 1st to Christmas Club members of Ardmore, Bryn Mawr, Narberth and Bala-Cynwyd banks. Over 10,000 Main Line depositors will reap the fruits of a year's saving.

Checks totaling $339,000 will be mailed by the Merion Title and Trust Company to Christmas Club members in its Ardmore, Narberth and Bala-Cynwyd banks. Two thousand four hundred depositors in the Ardmore office of the Merion Title will receive $250,000, an average of about $100 per depositor. The Narberth branch, with 1500 Christmas Club members, will distribute approximately $57,000 and the same amount will be released by the Bala-Cynwyd branch to about 1000 members.

History of Thanksgiving Traced in Kiwanis Talk

Thanksgiving today has more actual giving in it than in former times, declared S. E. Downs, Superintendent of Schools of Lower Merion Township, speaking before the weekly meeting of the Main Line Kiwanis Club at Whitehall, Haverford, on Tuesday November 18.

In his talk Mr. Downs traced the historical development of the Thanksgiving feast from Biblical times, through the Greeks' three-day feasts in honor of the Goddess Demeter, to the Romans' seven-day celebrations of feasting and contests in honor of Ceres. In the middle ages, the speaker said, there were numerous feast days observed but they were chiefly for rejoicing over the downfall of enemies.

The Pilgrims, from whom our Thanksgiving dates more specifically, at the time of their three-day feasts forgot their stern, harsh life for a bit and became mellow.

The first Presidential proclamation, according to the speaker, was issued by President Washington and none was issued from that time until that by Lincoln in 1863 at the turning point in the Civil War. Ever since the fourth Thursday in November has been proclaimed a day of National Thanksgiving by the Presidents of the United States.

IF THEY COULD BE THANKFUL THEN

Beset by hostile savages, surrounded by bleak wildernesses, primitively housed, the fathers of New England looked upon life and found it so good that they set aside a day of giving Thanks.

If they could find thankfulness amidst such circumstances, how much more should we be able to rejoice in the blessings which attend our life today. It is our hope that you, like we, are astonished at the long list of things for which we are thankful this year.

Store Modernization Campaign Begun by Ardmore Chamber

A campaign to modernize Ardmore's stores was launched last week by the Ardmore Chamber of Commerce. Through the co-operation of the three Ardmore banks, the services of W. J. Brady, a merchandising expert with the A. J. Luther & Co. of Chicago, will be made available to Ardmore merchants without cost for one month.

Mr. Brady will visit as many stores during this time as signify their desire for his services, and give advice on store arrangement, stock control, adequate though simplified records, methods of outlining advertising campaigns, etc.

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward step in Chevrolet's twenty-year record of constant progress and improvement. For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty, new luxury, new completeness and new quality—yet it sells at lower prices!

In every curve and sweep of Chevrolet's modern lines—in every detail of its new Fisher bodies, you will see the fine hand of the master designer and the skillful craftsman. And the more closely you inspect it, the more deeply impressed you will be.

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six begin at the smart new chrome-plated headlamps and extend throughout the entire car. The radiator is deeper. The lines are longer and lower, giving an air of exceptional fleetness and grace. And the interiors of the new Fisher bodies provide a new degree of comfort and luxury: greater roominess; fine quality mohair or broadcloth upholstery; more pleasing interior fittings; and a new, completely equipped instrument panel.

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier, deeper and stronger than before. There is a smoother operating, long lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering mechanism; an easier shifting transmission. In fact, every vital feature of the new car has been made better to provide more thorough satisfaction for the owner.

And along with these improvements, Chevrolet offers the smooth performance of a 50-horsepower, six-cylinder motor—four long semi-elliptic springs—four hydraulic shock absorbers—a safety gasoline tank at the rear of the car—and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.

Birth of Jesus Subject of Forum Discussion

The stories of the genealogy, birth and childhood of Jesus were the subject of consideration and discussion at the meeting of the Forum last Thursday evening in the home of William A. Stout, of Hampden Avenue. In addition to the Biblical sources of such information, consideration was given to many of the Apocryphal stories of the infancy and childhood of Jesus. Nearly all of these stories were new and surprising to the members of the Forum who agreed that sound judgment had been displayed in not including all early Christian writings in the Bible as we now have it.

The next meeting of the Forum will be held on the evening of Thursday, December 4, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Wood, 237 Forrest Avenue. The life and teachings of John the Baptist and their influence upon the ministry of Jesus will be the subject of discussion, and as a preparation for that subject it was recommended by the leader, the Rev. Robert E. Keighton, that the members of the group should read the sixth chapter of "The Life of Jesus of Nazareth" by Rush Rhees.

Hold Thank Offering

The annual Thank Offering of the Women's Missionary Society of the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church was held on Sunday evening in the church. Mrs. A. Pohlmann was the speaker and addressed the meeting on the subject of the Brotherhood of Man. She also told of the great strides that the Daily Vacation Bible School has made among the poorer classes of Philadelphia. Her talk was very interesting and enlightening. Some beautiful selections were rendered by the choir.

W. F. M. S. to Meet Monday

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church will meet in the church parlor on Monday, December 1. Members are requested to bring their Christmas offering to this meeting.

Auxiliary Meets Thursday

The Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church will meet next Thursday, December 4, from ten until four. Luncheon will be served at 12:30. Any mite boxes not returned in November may be brought to this meeting.

From the CELLAR to Your KITCHEN

We're Climbing Up With General Electric Refrigerators

Formerly all the business we had with our many good customers in this community was in the CELLAR. Today, in inaugurating our new "Home Service" Department, we introduce ourselves as a co-operative dealer to sell the General Electric Refrigerator, which gives us our initial entrance into your KITCHEN where we hope in time you will permit us to serve you with the same solicitous care for your needs that has governed us in supplying your fuel for the past eight years.

The General Electric Refrigerator has been our choice to sell among the many other machines on the market because such a procedure fits in perfectly with our well-defined policy of offering the public an outstanding product of a particular line. We are convinced that the General Electric Refrigerator commands the same high place among the cold-producing agents of its type that Jeddo-Highland anthracite enjoys among the heat-giving fuels on the market.

Popular models of the General Electric Refrigerators are now on display at our office. We cordially invite you to come in and examine them at any time.

Rev. Van Ness Honored on His 20th Anniversary

tioned the fact that he always likes to say that he and Mr. Van Ness have served their churches about the same length of time, Mr. Van Ness having been here about twenty years and he in his church about twenty, too (22). Mr. Rawson having served his church about twenty-two years and a half. As well as telling some very interesting facts concerning the two pastorates, Mr. Rawson told some wonderfully funny stories, which won for him the admiration of his entire audience.

In honor of the occasion, Robert H. Durbin read a poem of his own composition, after some very witty remarks, for which he is noted. The poem was entitled "Anniversary Appreciation" and reads as follows:

To Reverend Mr. John Van Ness:
Your friends are gathered to express
Their good-will and affection.
The members of your church, and some

Benighted heathen friends have come
From every direction,
To wish you joy, to grasp your hand,
So you may fully understand
That you're appreciated—

That you are honored in our town
(With or without your cleric gown),
That as a man you're rated
Well worthy of our deep respect—
And those of us who may neglect

To come to Sabbath meeting,
Beg leave to join the steadfast few
Who're never absent from their pew,
In warm wholehearted greeting!
Now, that you've served us twenty years—

Have shared our joys and seen some tears—

Your hold on us is stronger
Than it has ever been—and we Sincerely trust that you may be
Among us twenty longer!
Your ministrations here have reached
Our inner lives—and though you've preached

At least two thousand sermons—
Gave grace and comfort to the vexed—
On countless topics, ev'ry text,
From Philistines to Germans—
As pastor you're the real friend
From christening to life's journey's end,

Occasions sad or pleasant—
Thus, when we hear the swelling tones
Of that old march of Mendelssohn's,
We're glad to have you present!

The good you've done all recognize;
You have your church increased in size,

A wife still young and clever;
A cozy home, a smart sedan—
Why, these should keep most any man
Quite satisfied forever!

We wish for you and your good wife
A very long and happy life,
As we have here attested;

May heaven bless you on your way!
And, sir, we trust that you never may
For speeding be arrested!

After the reading of the above poem Fred Robb presented Mr. Van Ness with a leather-bound book in which the names of the guests present had been inscribed. He also presented Mr. Van Ness with the lovely onyx inkstand and the pen with which the names had been written. In receiving these gifts from the church Mr. Van Ness spoke of his hearty thanks and appreciation for all the evidences of his people's good wishes and good will, remarking about the large number of congratulatory cards he had received and stating that his home was a veritable bower of flowers which had been received in commemoration of this happy day.

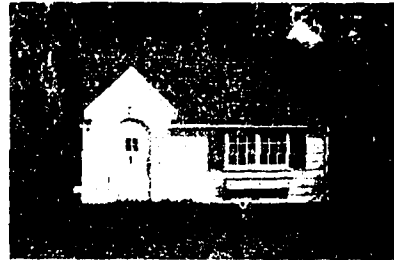

Not only was Mr. Van Ness thus honored, but also Mrs. Van Ness, who holds a very dear place in the hearts of the members of the Narberth Presbyterian Church, was presented with a handsome basket of chrysanthemums and lilies.

After this very full and delightful program a number of the ladies of the church served very tasty refreshments, which, of course, climaxed an evening of extreme cordiality.

This program was planned and carried out by Mrs. Edward Haws, assisted by a committee consisting of Fred Robb, Walter Fox and Ralph Rankin.

For the "Wee" People

An attractive Doll House not only gives pleasure to the children, but meets the requirements of the "Buy Now" Campaign. It requires no suburban lot, nor the services of an architect, nor even a heavy expenditure. It can be made of thin Lumber or Wallboard, such as Upson or Presdwood. The latter is especially recommended for its rigid qualities and brown finish.

We can supply all the materials, including glue, paint, glass and hardware. There are other plans in our Library, and it is always at your service.

Former Narberth Woman Writes of Unemployment

Mrs. Charles Marques Merrell, who recently moved from Narberth to Philadelphia, is the author of one of the most interesting and important books of the fall season, dealing with the timely and tragic theme of unemployment. "Some Folks Won't Work," published by Harcourt, Brace and Company, of New York, is signed by Mrs. Merrell under her pen name, "Clinch Calkins," by which she is known as the author of a little book of poems which attracted some attention a few years ago. Her present volume attained the unusual distinction of being accorded the first-page place of honor in the New York Times Book Review of last Sunday, where it received a lengthy and altogether favorable review, both as to its contents and its literary quality.

"Some Folks Won't Work" differs from most of the recent literature on unemployment in being frankly human, rather than statistical. It is a matter-of-fact recital of what actually happened to some scores of competent, willing men and women who were thrown out of employment through no fault of their own—not in the present emergency, but in the halcyon days of ultra-prosperity, before the stock market crash eighteen and more months ago. The facts in every instance are vouched for by settlement workers in cities who carefully gathered the detailed stories, many of them concerning their own friends and neighbors. The author has indulged in no mock heroics or other sentimental appeal. She has, however, woven the tales together with a finely sensitive and artistic touch that makes a memorable and moving whole.

Mrs. Merrell is to address the Woman's Community Club of Narberth on next Tuesday afternoon, December 2, on "Unemployment Before and After the Panic."

Lutheran Loyalty Crusade Climaxes Next Sunday

The two Loyalty Crusade dinners held last Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Lutheran Church saw a very fine assembly of the members and friends of Holy Trinity gathered together in true Christian fellowship and placed in a mood for real service. Dr. John E. Hummon, the director of the Crusade, addressed both groups and issued a challenge to those in attendance as they had never been challenged before. The value of the church in past history and in the individual life was very forcefully told. "The Church of Jesus Christ specializes in the impossibilities of life," was one of Dr. Hummon's statements. Certainly if there were any people in attendance at the banquets who were not members of the church they must have been placed in a very thoughtful attitude.

Pastor Senft led the meetings in the Crusade Catechism, Creed, Vow and Prayer. George H. Hepple led the singing. The dinners were presided over by the executive chairman, S. J. McCartney.

For those who will attend the services next Sunday there will be a great treat in store. The results of the week's work will be reported at the morning service at which time Dr. Hummon will preach on "What Am I and What Ought I Do?" There will be a very interesting story to tell at the victory and praise service in the evening by the committees of visitors who go out among the people Sunday afternoon. All the members and friends of the congregation are urged to attend both these services and to enter into the spirit, rejoicing in the blessing the Lord sees fit to bestow upon Holy Trinity at this time.

Sergeant Vander Veur Has French and Dutch Ancestry

The fifth of a series of articles to introduce the members of Lower Merion's splendid police force to our readers.

By ROBERT M. CAMERON

Sergeant George Vander Veur, who is rounding out his twenty-first year as a member of the Lower Merion Police Department, has an interesting ancestry as one might infer from his name.

The family was originally French, and one zealous student of genealogy in the family in recent years has traced it back as far as 1600. The French strain is accounted for by the Veur in the Sergeant's name. Then along came the French Revolution and the family like many others at that time, left France and settled in Holland. And that is how the Vander came to be incorporated in the name. The sergeant's father settled in this country about fifty or sixty years ago.

Born in New York on September 1, 1887, Vander Veur came to Philadelphia with his family at the age of five. He went to school in Mt. Airy, but not being academically inclined, left it when fifteen and went to work. Young Vander Veur must have liked his first job, which was in a greenhouse, pretty well as he had to walk five miles to work every day.

For seven years Vander Veur worked as a florist, being employed for a few years on the estate of Percival Roberts, Jr., Penn Valley, and also for a short time by T. W. Brown, of Villanova. The experience he gained in those days still stands him in good stead as he has a small flower garden at his home on State Road, Gladwyne.

Vander Veur was appointed a member of the Township Police Department on April 4, 1909, and was made a sergeant on September 1, 1925.

By stretching the point of age a bit Vander Veur enlisted in the Pennsylvania National Guard when 18 and served for two three-year enlistment periods. He received an honorable discharge with the rank of quartermaster sergeant in 1912.

Sergeant Vander Veur is married and has two sons, George 18, and Roy 17, who attend Lower Merion High School.

(Another member of the Department next week.)

SERGEANT VANDER VEUR

In Texas a hen house was raided and twenty-five hens stolen. The next morning, after discovering the loss and tracking the thieves, a billfold containing $300 was found, which had been dropped by the chicken thieves. That was a pretty fair exchange for the fowls.

Hockey Player Holds Record

There they learned the possibilities of stick work, and the finer points of hockey playing.

Heretofore in America it had been more or less a question of brute force and speed. The girls who could hit the hardest and run the fastest were generally regarded with awe and looked upon as good players. According to Miss McLean "it didn't take us very long to find out that the English were just about ten years ahead of us in hockey. They used strokes and dodges that left us standing still and looking foolish."

Even in costume the English players were much, much ahead for they had then adopted the comfortable tunic which reached to about four inches above the knees, short sleeved and square-necked blouses, canvas shoes with cleats—in fact, everything that spelled for comfort and speed and good playing. In contrast, the Philadelphians wore ankle length flannel skirts, wool sweaters, blouses that called for a necktie and shoes that were not so suitable for the slippery English fields. Q. E. D. Philadelphians soon adopted tunics.

That trip and a return visit made by the English to Philadelphia finally led to the formation of the United States Field Hockey Association.

The first All-American hockey team was chosen in 1923 and in January, 1924, at the invitation of the All-England's Women's Field Hockey Association made a tour of England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales and played one game in Paris. Miss McLean at right half was one of the outstanding players of this touring group. Later on in 1924 this touring team played exhibition games in Pittsburgh and Chicago.

St. Louis held the national hockey tournament in 1926 and with the Philadelphia team Kitty McLean traveled out there. One might almost say with the Navy, "Play hockey and see the world."

Several other trips, small in point of distance, included Boston, Sweet Briar College in Virginia and an almost yearly pilgrimage to Poughkeepsie to play Vassar.

But according to Miss McLean the tour made last year to the West Coast by the 1929 All-American team was one of the most interesting. She captained this group of players, many of them chosen from the younger stars. Colleges and schools from Los Angeles north along the Pacific coast were played. Hockey is new out there, that is comparatively so, but that didn't dampen their enthusiasm. In Los Angeles Miss McLean had to address the 5000 girls attending the Los Angeles High School. This was done via the microphone.

One of the pleasant parts of that trip was the tour through movie studios, with luncheon at one of them as an interesting feature.

In addition to her playing, Miss McLean coaches the Rosemont College hockey team, and three days a week coaches at the University of Pennsylvania. On Saturdays and Sundays she journeys to Central Park, where she tutors the squad of the Carroll Club of New York, a club of business girls who can only play at this time.

Miss McLean called attention to the fact that three of her Carroll Club girls made the All-New York team which faced the All-Philadelphia on Wednesday. Two girls whom she coached at Camp Tegawitha are also members of the New York team.

Kitty McLean herself is known as one of the thoughtful players of the game. Her stickwork is excellent and added to that is a control of the ball and a fine appreciation of the game as it should be played. So one can understand why she has seven United States shields to her credit and has the distinction of traveling more miles in quest of hockey games than any other hockey player in America.

In addition to all this coaching, she has found time to import from England sticks, blazers and hockey equipment for her own pupils and for other school and college teams in this part of the country. Her brother, Henry J. McLean, lives in Wynnewood.

ALBERT C. ADAM

coach of the Lower Merion High School team, whose proteges met Radnor High School at the Villanova Stadium.

Time Out

By TOMMY MACKLIN

Let's not talk about it, fellows. It was just too bad to think about. But didn't that Radnor team play football? The Maroon team must have been paralyzed. We certainly were up in the press box.

Mr. Pearce, confident along with the rest, had tons of boxes and crates all stacked up in the wood room at the school for the great bonfire to follow. Thanks, Mr. Pearce, now maybe we can have some kindling for the winter months.

We wish Mr. Adam and Mr. Prevost would settle this matter of football supremacy between the two schools. Three tie games in five years and a victory apiece the other two meetings is getting on our nerves.

Watch Collingdale trip Darby this week. Collingdale has an all-suburban man in the backfield in the person of Thompson, a hundred-ninety-pound fullback who can hurl passes sixty yards and plow the line like an English tank.

When this week's football games are over, we will have something to say about who is champion of the suburban area. No team that plays a schedule of two A league teams, two B league teams and five C league teams is going to rate for any championship against an eleven that has whipped four major teams in the suburbs, a high rating private school and one of Philadelphia's strongest high school elevens along with three of the heaviest of the B league groups. How can a team that averages less than 155 pounds expect to be stronger than a team that averages in the 170-pound class and has been undefeated and only tied once?

Captain Pennypacker's team is still undefeated, and Lower Merion fans should stand behind them and boost them in spite of Saturday's disappointment. It is a poor spirit that cannot stand behind a team when it fails to come through once in a while. Lower Merion has won plenty of games for you; now you guys get together and stick with them, in your talk, in your thoughts, and in your hearts. It's a gritty, fighting football eleven, and we will stake our salary on them taking over any team in the Philadelphia area any day.

Eighteen straight victories, with two tie games with Radnor and one victory against them in the last twenty encounters for the locals. Why be so tight? They're only human, and boys besides.

Dave Ridge's No. 5 stood out during most of the battle. He certainly did give his best.

Now for Bill Anderson's basketball team. The boys have started practice and he may bring another championship to the Main Line. Over in the Junior High School Coach Burrell Fowler has the best-looking squad since the days of Warren Lockwood, "Perk" Scott and Al D'Amora. The boys are rangy, heavy and fast. Perhaps another championship may come to the Juniors too. The football team just added another championship trophy to the cabinet.

Two Phila. Youths Held For Main Line Robberies

A number of robberies in Lower Merion Township during the past few months were cleared up by the arrest of two Philadelphia boys on Monday, according to Lieutenant Mullin and Detective Sergeant Brown, of the township force. The boys are James Rush, 16, 1686 North Fifty-sixth Street, and Joseph Stanton, 17, 1476 North Wilton Street. They were accused of breaking into and robbing the homes of J. H. McGynn, Indian Creek Road, Wynnewood, on September 10; Eugene Muller, Merbrook Road, Merion, on July 22, and L. S. Herbert, Raynham Road, Merion, on August 14. Jewelry valued at more than $10,000 was obtained at the McGynn and Muller homes.

Stanton is one of three boys now under bail on the charge of holding up and robbing Brigadier General Robert M. Brookfield, 1216 Girard Avenue, on Armistice night. Both boys were given hearings before Magistrate Thomas Cronin on Wednesday.

the field in a rush to the goal line over 73 yards of muddy turf a few minutes later. It was a beautiful spinner working to perfection, and the score stood 6 to 6. It was too bad that Dave should have been called upon to take the forward for the extra point for the lad was all tired out from his long run through the soft grass, and his hands could not control the ball. The Maroon continued to gain against Radnor in the second quarter and with the aid of the pass from Rockwell to Pennypacker, another touchdown was scored in the ensuing moments. Again the Lower Merion extra point was lost, and the half ended with the score 12 to 6, L. M.'s favor.

In the second half Harry Frazer got his ideas mixed and touched a kick that should have been left alone, and Radnor recovered on the nine-yard line. From that position they scored the tying touchdown. It is too bad the team did not try more forward passes with Radnor's box formation sucked in close to the line of scrimmage most of the game. The only time that Rockwell tried a long pass it went for a touchdown, but they must have forgotten it, for they did not try any more of them.

With Lachman Reinhart out of the game with an operation on his ear, the passing from centre was not so satisfactory. Sluggish play by Lower Merion was in evidence at times, though they had their opportunities to score. They were licked if you want to call it a defeat by a team that played harder, sounder, smarter football. It is too bad for the Ardmoreites, but it is the facts.

For Radnor, the entire team looked good, every man doing his bit, and the backs were certainly functioning in ship-shape manner.

Theremin, Demonstrated at M. L. Orchestra Concert by Mrs. Thayer, Has Wide Tone Range

Mrs. John B. Thayer, whose demonstration of the electric Theremin at the concert of the Main Line Orchestra on Sunday evening received an enthusiastic ovation, has been intrigued by this marvelous new instrument since it first became known to the world.

Over two years ago Mrs. Thayer was in Washington when quite by accident she heard that its inventor was in that city. She went with a friend to the small studio where Leon Theremin gave a demonstration of the instrument. Her interest was so great that she obtained a promise from the Russian professor, with whom she conversed in French, of the first instrument to be manufactured for sale.

About a year later Mrs. Thayer again saw Professor Theremin at the radio show in New York and bought the instrument he had used there for demonstration purposes. She has received instruction on it from Professor Theremin himself and from one of his foremost pupils.

My curiosity having been aroused at the concert by this unique instrument, I had the pleasure of examining it and hearing some more playing on it by Mrs. Thayer in her home on Monday. First the layman listener was introduced to the scale as played on the Theremin. The tone range of the instrument is very great, playing high or low notes with equal ease.

It should be remembered that the "playing" is all done by simply moving the hands; there is no keyboard or other material agency. As a listener behind me at the concert remarked, "It's uncanny," and it is.

Movement of the right hand towards one antenna controls the pitch and of the left hand toward the other antenna controls the volume. Moving the right hand toward the antenna increases the pitch of the tone, while moving the left hand away from the other antenna increases the volume. A movement of any person within a few feet of the instrument will vary the pitch of the tone since the electrical field extends about the instrument. When the interior of the Theremin is exposed to view, it resembles roughly a radio with several tubes and coils. It is plugged in to an ordinary electric light socket and operated on alternating current. A regulation radio loud speaker is used for amplification.

It struck me that the instrument it most resembles in tone is the viola, the somewhat melancholy stringed instrument of the orchestra and string quartet whose range is between that of the violin and the 'cello.

As though to show me that my supposition of the natural range of the Theremin being restricted to the viola was all wrong, Mrs. Thayer proceeded to play Saint-Saens' "Le Cygne" as a violin would do it and then "Liebestraum" with a 'cello tone. By this time I was thoroughly convinced of the adaptability of the instrument.

Despite the assertion of Leopold Stokowski that the Theremin presents no great technical difficulties in playing, anyone who tries it, as I did, will soon realize there are plenty. I assumed the proper position in front of the instrument with hands extended near the antenna and proceeded to move them as I had seen Mrs. Thayer do, but instead of any recognizable tune all I succeeded in producing was a series of discordant noises.

"It is difficult to play," Mrs. Thayer said, which cheered me immensely, "and one has to have an almost perfect musical ear because there is no other means of checking up on the results." That accounts for my disastrous attempt, I said to myself, since I have never been credited with a musical ear.

"The Theremin reflects the personality of the performer more than any instrument that I know," said Mrs. Thayer, "since it is so sensitive. If you are feeling fine the instrument reflects your well being. It is really marvelous."—(By R. M. C.)

Orchestra Pleases in First Concert

Music of modern French composers entered the program after the intermission. The "Valse nobles et sentimentales" by Ravel, "Berceuse" by Rabey, and "Gaiement" by Staub, were played by the orchestra. A fine example of harp playing was given by Dorothy Johnstone Baseler in Debussy's "Danse Sacree" and "Danse Profane."

A piano group by Miss Lindeberg, who is a pupil of Miss Florence Leonard, head of the Main Line School of Music, was well received. It consisted of DeFalla's danse from "La Vida Breve" and Debussy's "Reflects dans L'Eau."

The final numbers by the orchestra consisted of "Soirs" by Schmitt, Debussy's "Beau Soirs" and the popular "Bolero" by Ravel.

Mrs. Thayer's groups on the Theremin were "O Lovely Night," "Londonderry Air" and "Still as the Night." For encores she played "Land o' the Lea," "Swanee River" and Brahms' "Cradle Song." Miss Alfreda Rossmassler accompanied Mrs. Thayer on the piano.

The playing of the orchestra, which numbers more musicians this year than ever before, was of a high quality throughout the concert and gave evidence of careful rehearsing by its conductor, Adolph Vogel.

Main Line Repertory to Give 'The Devil's Disciple'

The Main Line Repertory Theatre will present "The Devil's Disciple," by Bernard Shaw, on Wednesday evening, December 17, at the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club. Like all of Shaw's plays it is worth seeing for itself alone, but the cast and staging will be greatly worth seeing also. Almost all the people in the play are Main Liners. Staats Cotsworth as the Devil's Disciple brings to the part a sincere understanding of Shaw's ideas, together with the undoubted ability to act it. George Joly, who has been a real repertory actor, has the part of Anderson, a minister and man of action, and has a real chance to show his talents which former audiences have always appreciated. Others in the cast are Dick Bushnell, who won a place in the group through the merits of his performance as the staid and mathematical Mr. Baxter in "Belinda" which was given on November 5; Virginia Chewing as Essie; Bob Ely as Gentlemanly Johnny; Lisel Boericke as Mrs. Dudgeon; Tad Sheppard as Uncle Titus, and others well known to Repertory Theatre audiences.

For any information concerning subscriptions and active membership write to the Main Line Repertory Theatre, Deepdene, Wynnewood.

Erratum

In the obituary notice of the death of Lewis Reichner, Sr., in last week's issue it was erroneously stated that Mr. Reichner was a member of an old Main Line family. Mr. Reichner lived in Cynwyd for the past twenty-five years and before that his family all lived in South Philadelphia where they have lived since his grandfather settled there after the Revolution. His great grandfather fought in the Revolution. Mr. Reichner's wife, Mrs. Annie E.

Reichner, died in 1917, a few months after the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

Merion Fire Company Reinstated in Township

The Merion Fire Company of Ardmore was reinstated to membership in the Fire Department of Lower Merion Township by action of the Board of Commissioners at their meeting November 19.

This step, which was brought about by the mediation of a neutral committee, the efforts of the Board of Managers of the Merion Fire Company and the repudiation by Edward McGoldrick, chief of the Merion Fire Company, of his action in resigning from the Board of Directors of the Township Fire Department, brings the six-month controversy to a conclusion.

The annual appropriation of the commissioners to the Merion Fire Company, held up pending settlement of the controversy, which centered around the withdrawal of the Merion Fire Company's representative on the Board of Directors of the Township Fire Company, will be paid in proportion to the period the company was a member of the department. The delay in meeting the terms of the commissioners will cost the Merion Fire Company $2105, which represents the period from July 14 to November 20, during which the Merion Fire Company was not a member of the Township Fire Department.

The Merion Fire Company will hence receive $3895 for the year 1930.

School Pupils Receiving Corrective Treatments

Corrective treatment is being administered to 343 pupils in Lower Merion elementary schools, according to a report submitted by Miss Swartzlander, who is in charge of the work.

Of this number 199 are receiving corrective back treatments and 144 treatments for defective feet. In Bryn Mawr and Cynwyd 57 pupils at each school are taking advantage of these courses.

Police Force Complimented At Annual Inspection

The Lower Merion Police force, ninety strong, was complimented upon its fine appearance, efficiency and gentlemanly conduct by Frank H. Sykes, President of the Board of Commissioners, at the annual inspection on November 17. It was held at the Township Building, Ardmore, with the entire force in full uniform and equipment.

Other speakers at the inspection were A. D. Warnock, chairman of the Police and Fire Committee of the Board of Commissioners, and Charles P. Smith, Superintendent of Police. The department consists of 70 patrolmen, 6 sergeants, 2 lieutenants, the superintendent, 1 clerk, a turnkey in Lower Merion; four officers assigned to the Borough of Narberth and two under the direction of the Merion Civic Association.

Strawbridge and Clothier Plan Jenkintown Store

Announcement was made last week of plans for the building of another Strawbridge and Clothier store in the suburbs. The new unit will be located in Jenkintown and will be constructed by the same group of men who developed the Dixon tract in Ardmore on which the Main Line store is located.

The store at Ardmore has been a notable success from the outset, with a volume of business which made necessary the construction of a substantial addition, opened a few weeks ago.

Music Popular in Schools

At present in Lower Merion schools 414 students are studying various instruments of the orchestra. This list is complete for only the eight elementary schools of the township. The largest number of pupils, 161, are receiving instruction in violin while 109 are taking bugle courses. The greatest musical interest seems to be in Wynnewood where the number of pupils participating in the musical work is about 100.

PROPOSAL

Bids for the collection of trash and ashes from all houses, apartments, stores, churches and restaurants in the Borough of Narberth for the year of 1931, are hereby requested. The bids will be received by the Secretary of the Borough Council, up to 8 P. M. on Monday, December 8, 1930, at which time a regular meeting of the Borough Council convenes, and the opening of the bids will take place.

Submit bids two ways: First, taking over the present equipment of the Borough of Narberth, and second, furnishing own equipment.

Contracts will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, and Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Collections will be required in accordance with the following schedule: One collection each week from every building during the months of September, October, November, December, January, February, March and April.

Two collections each month from every building during the months of May, June, July and August.

Ashes, trash, bottles and cans may be collected together, but papers must be collected separately.

All collections to be made from the rear of all the houses and empty containers to be returned to the rear of the houses.

Successful bidder will be required to furnish bond.

ROBERT F. WOOD,
Chairman of Highway and Sewer Committee.

When the Pilgrims Landed

On "the stern and rock-bound coast" they came, to found a new land dedicated to personal and religious liberty.

Little did they dream of the great, prosperous land that this nation is now. Progress since the Pilgrims landed has been rapid, and is constantly accelerating.

But it was their forethought and prudence that laid the foundations of our present prosperity and freedom. Let us, too, be prudent, and exercise foresight, in order to ensure an even greater America in the future.

Do not WASTE. The Pilgrims could not!

Five Cases Reported

Two cases of chicken pox, two of mumps and one case of whooping cough comprise the new cases of contagious diseases reported by the Lower Merion Boards of Health's Health Officer for the week ending November 21. A total of twenty-four cases are now under quarantine, sixteen of them being whooping cough.

Echoes of the News

Probably few, privately at least, will question the conclusion of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler that "under prohibition the liquor traffic is the one preferred occupation among us in which there is no unemployment."

Oscar C. Hessler, of Chicago, is not a man who jumps at conclusions. After 35 years he is filing a divorce bill, in which he says he has decided that his wife has deserted him, she having been away from him all that time.

Farmers complain because of the low price of wheat. Maybe they could press wheat into the form of little golf balls for putting.

Magistrate Thomas W. Cronin Blames Parents, Not Boys, for Juvenile Crimes

By JOSEPH L. COPELAND

One of the greatest social problems with which the modern world has to deal is parental delinquency, in the opinion of Thomas W. Cronin, of Ardmore, Justice of the Peace in Lower Merion Township.

"Not juvenile delinquency," he will say in his booming voice, leaning back in his chair to gaze sternly at the father or mother who is pleading the cause of an erring son or daughter. "Parental delinquency!" And he says it in the manner of that seer who said to King David: "Thou art the man!"

Tom Cronin can be bluff and hearty, full of jokes and laughter and good nature; and he can be stern to the point of making parents walk out of his courtroom with a new idea of duty to their children and to society in general.

The arrest of six or seven boys in their teens for a series of burglaries, automobile thefts and highway robbery led him to deliver a series of almost nightly lectures in the past week from the bench at the Ardmore Police Station.

Weeping mothers and fathers, bowed down with grief, appeared before the kindly-faced magistrate to ask mercy for their sons, and judging from the benign features of the man on the bench above them, they expected to get it. What they got instead was something to stiffen their backbones.

"What time does your boy come home at night," he asked softly of the mother of a 16-year-old lad accused of highway robbery.

"Oh, he must be in by twelve," replied the mother, primly. "I insist upon that. I wait up for him."

That is the sort of answer that precedes the explosion.

"Twelve! Good heavens, woman, wake up! Don't you know your son should be in bed asleep a good two hours before midnight! I tell you it is the parents of boys like this who are responsible for the wave of crime and disregard of law that is destroying the moral fiber of this nation. You should be ashamed, ashamed, I tell you, to stand up there and admit you have no more control over your son than to be satisfied if he is pleased to come home by midnight!"

Warning to his subject, the gray-haired justice leans across the high desk and shakes a finger before the startled eyes of his listeners.

"Do you ever make pals of your sons or daughters? No! Do you go out with them? No! Do you go to church with them? No! Most of you parents have forgotten you were young. You are content to vegetate. You are too lazy to make a good, old-fashioned happy home life for your children, for your interests seem to be restricted to going to the movies, listening to the radio and taking Sunday rides in an automobile you can't afford to own.

"Most of you think you've done your duty by your children if you provide them with money for the movies."

"Has the spirit of old-fashioned home life departed forever? I remember—and you can remember—the days when families were satisfied to remain at home in the evenings. They read, played games, played the piano or some other musical instrument, sang—and if the music they made was not as grand as that that is now heard over the radio from the great masters of music, it was better far than most of the stuff one listens to and it had the additional advantage of being of the home-made variety."

"You parents must learn that you have responsibilities! If you keep your children off the streets, make their home life so happy they won't seek bad companions, see that they go to church and Sunday School; if you exercise a wise restraint on them you will never find yourselves in the position you are in at the present time. Parents, wake up to your opportunities of making this life heaven or hell for yourselves and your children."

Music School Opened in Boy Scout House

Two instructors of the Narberth Public School's first class in instrumental music announced this week the opening of a Narberth School of Music, with headquarters at the Boy Scout House, south of the railroad station. The men are Guy Shortz and Ralph Binz, music instructors in the Mastbaum Trade School, of Philadelphia, and in the Camden School of Music. Both have played with the Philadelphia Civic Band for the past ten seasons.

Mr. Shortz is an ex-service man, and played in a regular army band for three years while in the service, here and abroad, during the World War.

Six weeks ago the two instructors formed a Narberth School Orchestra, which plans to give a concert within the next few weeks. This is by permission of Principal W. James Drennan and Music Supervisor Miss Frances Fricke, of the School.

Now being formed, is a Narberth Band, with membership open to anyone, whether or not the owner of a musical instrument. Rehearsals are to be held in the Boy Scout House.

As for the school of music, its instruction is to be given in the scout house also, and it is expected many of its students will become members of the band. Instruction will be given in the following instruments: flute, oboe, clarinet, saxophone, trumpet, trombone, baritone, bass, horns, drums, violin, cello and piano.

Girl Scout Reporters' Club

Philadelphia Girl Scouts—which include the Scouts of the Main Line—are growing news-conscious. Under the enthusiastic leadership of Mr. Johnson of Johnson and Prince they are meeting twice a month for lectures, discussions and demonstration in the field of journalism. The course is based upon, but not limited to, the requirements for Scribe and Journalist Merit Badges.

A leisurely tour of the "Ledger" plant was programmed for the second meeting. The different processes in newspaper make-up which had been previously discussed in class, became definite realities to the girls as they, in company with a guide and Mr. Johnson, passed from the wire and city editor's rooms, through type-setting department to the presses.

The work, which includes assignments, is already so advanced that it has been necessary to close the class to further membership. Another will be formed, no doubt, later on.

Girl Scout Sewing Class

In about two weeks residents of the Main Line may begin to see about twenty-five Girl Scouts appearing in brand new, perfect fitting, beautifully made uniforms. Just that number of Girl Scouts have been going down to the Singer Sewing Machine store on Chestnut Street, every Saturday morning since October 4th, for instruction in operating a machine, seaming, tucking and binding. In addition to this, they have learned how to fold a pattern until it fits perfectly, as well as how to cut out any garment with the aid of a pattern.

When the girls in this group have finished their dresses, another class will be started.
